Reasons for Allowance

1. Claims 1-3,9 will be allowed.
2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance.

The prior art references most closely resembling the applications claimed invention are Nelson et al (U.S. 5,812,857), Li et al (6,012,088) and Tang et al (U.S. 6,298,370).

Nelson is directed to the field configurable embedded computer system contains a central processing unit, a persistent memory area for storing programs persistent variables that need to be preserved when the product is powered down, a volatile memory that is operational while the unit containing the field configurable embedded computer system is powered on, but is erased when the unit is powered off, and a network communications hardware means, including the associated software drivers that enable the device to connect to a computer network. However Nelson failed to disclose, "Automatically reconfiguring the FPGA hardware structure of the computer with the aid of the hardware portion of the first configuration data so that the computer exhibits a hardware structure configured to the first task; and processing the first task with the computer configured with the first configuration data" (claims, 1,9).

Li is directed to the configuration record may be modified by the user or the ISP if the user physically changes the hardware within the computer and prearranges the change with the ISP (i.e., switches from a modem to an ISDN line). However Li did not disclose, "Automatically reconfiguring the FPGA hardware structure of the computer with the aid of the hardware portion of the first configuration data so that the computer exhibits a hardware structure configured to the first task; and processing the first task with the computer configured with the first configuration data” (claims, 1,9).

Also Tang failed to disclose, “Automatically reconfiguring the FPGA hardware structure of the computer with the aid of the hardware portion of the first configuration data so that the computer exhibits a hardware structure configured to the first task; and processing the first task with the computer configured with the first configuration data” (claims, 1,9).

In summary, the Examiner submits that there is no motivation to combine the aforementioned references; therefore, claims 1-3,9 have been deemed allowable over the prior art.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled “Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance”.
